Excellence in Education

Montana has an unwavering commitment to education, as exhibited by its history of high rankings in national comparisons of expenditures per pupil, graduation rates, adult literacy, and college entrance examination scores.

Montana's high school graduation rate of 86.7% far outstrips the 71.1% national average (1993). Montana students consistently score well on college entrance exams. In 1996, Montana's ACT average score of 21.7 was the highest in a nine-state region, and well above the national average of 20.8. And special needs are met with innovative programs for both the handicapped and gifted students.

Nearly 6,400 degrees were awarded in 1995 by the state's institutions of higher education, with the largest number in business and management, education, and engineering.

Montana invests in the future.

Quality of Life

Snowcapped peaks. Pine forests and clear streams. Badlands and prairies where history was made. Quiet places to refresh the soul and lift the spirit.

Powder-perfect downhill skiing at world-class resorts. Summer sailing, blue-ribbon trout fishing, or a challenging round of golf. Opera, concerts, art exhibits, and theater productions to enrich your evenings.

Modern malls and vibrant, revitalized downtown areas. Exceptional housing in all styles and price ranges. Regional medical centers with state-of-the-art equipment. Low crime, low pollution, low cost of living. No traffic jams--no hassles.

You can't list these assets on balance sheets, but they attract and keep the high caliber of managers and employees you need.

Montana, where quality is a way of life.

Abundant Resources

Montana industries pay substantially less for energy than do their competitors elsewhere, partially due to the state's abundance of low-cost hydroelectric power. Fourteenth lowest among the 48 contiguous states in fuel and electrical energy costs per million BTUs, Montana offers low-cost natural gas and electric rates for some industries. Ten regulated power companies and 26 electric cooperatives serve the state. Large reserves also exist to power Montana industries far into the future.

Montana has energy to spare.

Market Access

Strategically located at the crossroads of the West, Montana lies halfway between Minneapolis and the port cities of Seattle, Portland, and Vancouver, and midway between Denver and Edmonton.

Nearly 300 intrastate, and approximately 1,300 interstate and international motor carriers serve business on the state's modern and efficient highway network.

Rail transportation is reliable and accessible. Nearly 3,400 miles of track lead to markets in California, the Mississippi Valley, the Gulf Coast, Canada West, and coastal seaports. With intermodal and transloading facilities, the Port of Montana and the Port of Shelby make worldwide shipping to and from Montana easy and cost effective.

Three major airline carriers and three regional airlines fly into 15 commercial airports. Another 119 public-use airports and numerous fixed-based operators and air taxi services meet general aviation needs.

Montana producers deliver.

Worker Productivity

Montana's most important economic resource is its people--hardworking, productive, innovative, adaptable, and committed to a strong work ethic. There is a large pool of well-educated and skilled workers, dependable people with a "can do" attitude. Wherever Montanans are at work, they produce. Montana's employers get their money's worth.

Technical Capacity

The technical help your business needs is close at hand in Montana. Assistance in financial packaging, marketing, international trade and licensing comes from the Department of Commerce and other state agencies.

Universities, colleges, vocational technical centers, and other educational institutions offer research services, marketing and management consulting, employee training, engineering help in resolving production problems, and more.

There is also a full range of private support services--precision machine shops, testing laboratories, computer software development, specialized consulting services, and facilities for research, assembly, processing, and finishing.

"Made in Montana" is more than a label. It's a matter of pride.

Financial & Tax Incentives

Montana's tax climate is mild and hospitable. There is no sales or use tax. Research and development firms get preferential tax rates and tax holidays. The general corporate income tax rate for Montana is 6.75%, which is well below the median rate of 7.9% for the 44 states imposing the tax. The 1989 Legislature drastically reduced the assessment rates applied to business machinery, equipment, furniture, and fixtures. Inventory and freeport merchandise are tax-exempt.

New business development and the expansion of existing firms are assisted through state loan, bonding, and near-equity investment programs. Tax incentives encourage private capital fund formation and investment. Reduced property tax assessments are available for qualifying new construction or remodeling.

Montana puts its money to work for business.

Commitment to Growth

Visitors to Montana see and experience it as the quintessence of the great American West--colorful, historic, breathtaking.

But there is another Montana, blending the strength and perseverance of the Old West with the vision and vitality of the new. It is an outward-looking Montana, moving aggressively to increase its participation in the international marketplace. The business programs and incentives that Montana offers now are the result of the determination to build a balanced and strong economy for the benefit of not only today's Montanans, but also for generations to come. In Montana, the frontiers of technology and the spirit have been joined.

Montana is a land to match your ambitions.

Accessible State Government

In Montana, easy access to the Governor and other state government officials is a point of pride. It is the rule rather than the exception. For those who desire face-to-face meetings, personal appointments are easily made. The Governor and members of the administration regularly visit businesses around the state.

And this openness is not limited to the Governor's Office. Legislators and local government officials work closely with businesses to resolve problems or encourage expansion.

The state's Congressional delegation is similarly accessible. Most Montanans refer to delegation members by their first names, and letter, facsimile, and telephone inquiries receive quick responses.

In Montana, you count.

The Montana Department of Commerce
Economic Development Division

The Economic Development Division is composed of a variety of programs aimed at improving and enhancing Montana's economic and business climate. The division's aim is to assist start-up and existing businesses with the technical and financial assistance necessary for their success.

To obtain more detailed information about programs listed here, contact:
Economic Development Division
Montana Department of Commerce
1424 9th Avenue
Helena, Montana 59620
(406) 444-3814

Regional Development

Under the Regional Development program, Montana is divided into five regions with a Regional Development Officer (RDO) assigned to each area. The program serves as an access point to all Commerce Department resources, and other business and community development resources. Businesses receive individual counseling and group training about business planning, financial analysis, loan packaging, state and private capital sources, and business tax incentives.

Microbusiness Finance

Montana "micro business" companies with fewer than 10 full-time equivalent employees and annual gross revenues under $500,000 can receive loans of up to $35,000. The loan program is designed to fund economically sound business projects that, because of their small size, are unable to obtain commercial financing.

Community Development Block Grant (CDBG)

The federally funded CDBG program awards funds annually to Montana's nonmetropolitan cities, towns, and counties for relending by local government for private business projects. Applications are made to the division by the local government sponsoring the project. Projects are selected for funding based on a number of criteria, and loan repayments by the assisted business are usually retained by the local government to provide for further loans within the community.

Business Location

The division publicizes and represents Montana to firms planning relocations or expansions; develops relationships with target industries and firms; and prepares and presents location data in response to inquiries. The office also works closely with local development organizations in their efforts to recruit new firms to their communities.

Trade Program
By providing representation, information, and technical assistance, the division helps Montanans pursue opportunities for trade, both domestically and internationally. Contract overseas offices are maintained in Taiwan at the Taipei World Trade Center and in the prefectural offices of Montana's sister state, Kumamoto, Japan. The Made in Montana program, also a focus of the Trade program, works to elevate the status of Montana-made products in the marketplace and to educate Montanans about the diversity of products manufactured in their state.

Business Technical Assistance
Start-up and expanding businesses are provided a variety of training, technical assistance, and information through a network of partnerships with local organizations and federal agencies. Included in this network are the Small Business Development Centers (SBDCs), the Small Business Administration (SBA), and local host organizations.

With the financial assistance of the U S WEST Foundation, the division administers the NxLevel Entrepreneurial training programs throughout the state, which provide in-depth training to prospective and existing business owners. SBDC service centers are located in Billings, Bozeman, Butte, Great Falls, Havre, Helena, Kalispell, Missoula and two eastern Montana cities (currently being selected).

The division, in conjunction with the Department of Environmental Quality, provides assistance to small businesses in complying with the regulations of the Federal Clean Air Act Amendments of 1990.

Business Licensing Information
The division provides prospective and existing business owners with information and technical assistance on state and local licensing requirements for starting and operating a business.

Census and Economic Information Center (CEIC)
The Census and Economic Information Center specializes in providing census, demographic, economic, business, and geographic data and research. Routine information requests, research, and analysis on special projects, technical assistance, and training in data access are features of the program. A one-stop depository of a wide variety of information on Montana, CEIC has data and information on: population and housing characteristics; income and employment; the economy by sector; foreign trade data; construction; small-area market data; government finances; and more. CEIC staff respond to an average of 3,400 information requests per year, with about 45 percent of those requests coming from the business sector.

Micro loan Technical Assistance
A technical assistance officer will provide assistance to microloan clients in the Helena area, rural areas of central Montana, including Lewistown, and to non Reservation Indians.

How to Use This Directory

Section I, Introduction (White)

The white pages will provide you with essential information on the business environment in Montana. There is also a profile of the Economic Development Division and its programs which, when contacted, can provide information on the relocation, opening, or expansion of a business in the state.

Section II, Alphabetical Section (Gray)

The gray pages list Montana manufacturing companies alphabetically and are useful if the name of the company is already known. This section also has the most complete listings of the companies. Information listed includes: company names, addresses, phone numbers, fax numbers, contact name and position, number of employees, whether they are exporting, and product with its four-digit Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) number.

Section III, Geographical Section (Blue)

The blue pages list companies by the city they are located in. It can be useful for those who would like a profile and an understanding of a community's industries.

Section IV, Product Section (Ivory)

The ivory pages list companies by the products manufactured. The information provided is company name, address, phone and fax numbers, all of which are sorted by SIC number. After locating the product of interest and the companies producing it, you can then refer to the longer Alphabetical Section.

Section V, Product Index (Green)

The green pages are a new addition to the Montana Manufacturers Directory. They provide you with an alphabetical listing of products matched with its SIC number. You can then refer to this number in the Product Section and find the companies manufacturing that particular product. Please note that not all of the products listed in this section are produced in Montana.

Product Index

Use this section to search for companies manufacturing a specific product. First, find the product in the alphabetic listing with its 1987 Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) number to the left of it. Second, reference that number with the earlier Product Section. Not all of the products listed here are manufactured in Montana.

Abbreviations: mfpm - made from purchased materials or materials transferred from another establishment mitse - made in the same establishment as the basic materials
